CHAPTER II

LAYING OUT ROUGH STOCK

THE tools needed for this are the rule, try-square or steel square, a straightedge and a pencil. Figure 2 shows the try-square and steel or framing square, and gives the names of the parts. The rule used may be the single-piece rule or the folding 2 ft.

rule, such as carpenters use (Fig. 3). A straightedge is anything which has one of its edges straight.

Directions: Measure off and mark the length of the piece required; measure off near the end the width wanted; at what is to become the other end of the piece, mark off the width as before. With the straight-edge, connect these points and draw a line through
